Marriage Ministry Tip Sheet

Did you know?
• Stepfamily couples (stepcouples) undoubtedly are part of your chapel or church family. Nationally, 40% of couples with children are stepcouples and 100 million people in the US have a step-relationship of some kind.

Here’s the problem:
• Stepfamily dynamics impact stepcouple health as much or more than the marriage itself making the typical marriage ministry only about half of what stepcouples need. Therefore, you might consider:
  1. Pointing stepcouples in your marriage ministry toward specific materials & training designed for blended families.
  2. Sprinkling brief side-lectures for stepcouples (“side-bars”) throughout your general marriage teaching.

Challenges:
• Shame or embarrassment prevents many stepcouples from attending blended family training. SOLUTION: Publicly communicate support and “come as you are” messages that welcome stepcouples.

• When blended families are formed following the death of a spouse, stepcouples often assume they won’t have challenges. SOLUTION: Use examples that involve widowed people.

• Leaders who fear this ministry condones divorce. SOLUTION: Be clear in communicating God’s design for lifelong marriage and that we are called to honor God with the marriage we are in.

Blended Family Ministry: A Redemptive Ministry

A healthy stepfamily:
  1. Prevents redivorce.
  2. Supports healthy child development.
  3. Prevents divorce in the next generation by providing a new model of life-long Biblical marriage to children.

Strong stepfamilies can break the generational cycle of divorce!

What can you do?
• Offer a small group, workshop, Bible class, webinar, or conference/event specifically for stepcouples. Find curriculum at FamilyLife.com/blended.

• Host a quarterly forum to help couples anticipate calendar stressors (e.g. holidays) and find encouragement from others.

• Train marriage mentors.

• Offer stepfamily specific pre-stepfamily counseling/training.

• Make books and DVD resources available.

• Use social media and your church website to promote all of these.
